

At Mondays Rotary Club Luncheon

In its Monday noon meeting, the Space Center Rotary Club heard Ed Bracher, second vice-president of Rotary International speak on Rotary goals. Pictured at the right in the first panel picture above, next to Dick Allen, who is outgoing club president, Bracher noted that there are 633,000 Rotary members in 143 countries. Some of those 633,000 are the new Space Center Rotary directors shown in the center picture. Sitting from left to right, these are Bob Scott, treasurer; Bill Swenson, vice-president; Jerry Hammack, president; and Harry Jennings, secretary. Standing (l to r) are directors Don Ahlborn, Roger Hobart, Worth McCauley, Martin Gracey, Sam White, Gene Lindquist, and Colin Harrison. In the third picture, Rotary exchange students Stephen Lockett of England and Niels Hallelov of Denmark, both 18, pose with the flag of their host country. They are touring the United States this summer. Both were disappointed they were unable to meet an astronaut. NEWS CITIZEN PHOTOS.
